FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Kentico Expands US Operations with New Office in Seattle

Nashua, New Hampshire, USA, April 13, 2011 – Kentico Software (<http://www.kentico.com>), the Web content management system vendor, announced today that it is expanding its US operations by opening a new office in Seattle and has signed on Justin Smith as a Territory Sales Manager for the Western United States.

Justin Smith will work as a Territory Sales Manager, being responsible for key business development initiatives, providing support and input for Kentico developer partner channels and maintaining strategic alliance partnerships in the development of increased business opportunities within the developer channels.

Justin has twenty years of experience in leading business development/sales/service organizations and multinational teams. He also brings the experience of being within a number of Seattle area tech startups, in roles from Global B2C Support, Service and Sales Manager to VP of Business Development. His passion is dynamic technology solutions that enable companies to exceed the expectations of their customers/clients and partners.

"Kentico is a fast-growing company focused on developing a best-of-breed enterprise CMS solution and we've realized significant growth through the past couple years. We are very excited to have Justin Smith join the Kentico team in our Seattle office, further extending our US operations," said Eric Webb, President of Sales and operations for North America at Kentico Software. "Justin will allow us to enhance the service to our existing clients and Solution Partners while further developing the Kentico client base throughout the West coast. I believe that his experience and energy will be an excellent augmentation to our team" he added.

"I'm excited to join the Kentico organization because of their long standing excellent history of exceeding partner expectations, commitment to innovation and belief in hearing the customer. Companies that strive to do the right thing, seek relationships built on transparent trust and mutual business to exceed expectations of the customer excite me; Kentico has been doing this as standard operating for years and I am pleased to join," said Justin Smith, Territory Sales Manager at Kentico Software.

The Seattle office will oversee Kentico operations throughout the Pacific Time zone along with Hawaii and Alaska. In the close future the office will also provide technical support and will allow Kentico to provide 24/7 support with response time guaranteed by a Service Level Agreement.

The new U.S. office is located in Seattle, Washington, and will be the central location for the states in the Pacific Time Zone together with Hawaii and Alaska. It can be reached at phone number (425) 736-4590 or e-mail: justins@kentico.com.
